

A woman with long, wavy blonde hair is seen from the back, sitting in a light-colored, woven hammock. She is looking out over a sandy beach towards the ocean. The hammock is strung between the branches of a coconut tree. The scene is bright and sunny, with shadows cast on the sand.

Our coconut oil has been sourced from an Australian fair trade venture that provides rural, South Pacific communities with meaningful employment, a regular income and better living standards.

The pure, certified organic oil in all Coconut Tree products has been cold-pressed from mature fresh coconuts. Untouched by heat or chemical-treatment – before, during or after pressing – every nutrient is left intact to nourish skin and hair from the outside in.

Revered for its great versatility, the coconut palm is often referred to as 'The Tree of Life'. Creating healthy skin and hair products from ethically sourced coconut oil allows Coconut Tree to create a circle of life – sustaining the health of our customers and the communities who supply this natural beauty elixir.
